Section 1 – Program Background

A. Workforce1 Career Center System Overview

The New York City (“City”) Department of Small Business Services (“Agency” or “SBS”) helps unlock economic potential and creates economic security for all New Yorkers by connecting New Yorkers to good jobs, creating stronger businesses, and building a fairer economy in neighborhoods across the five boroughs. Since 2003, SBS has administered the City’s Workforce Investment Act (“WIA”), superseded in 2015 by the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act – federally funded adult and dislocated workforce development programs (“Workforce1 Career Center System” or “Workforce System” through a network of One-Stop Career Centers (“Workforce1 Career Centers” or “Centers”). This structure directly links the City’s workforce with economic development efforts. By supporting the needs of more than 200,000 small businesses across hundreds of neighborhoods with distinct cultural and economic characteristics, the City is better able to serve and advance a diverse labor force. There are 20 Workforce1 Career Centers which, in conjunction with NYC Business Solutions Centers and Industrial Providers, fulfill new and expanding businesses hiring and training needs by finding, preparing, and connecting the most qualified local residents to their available job opportunities. The main tasks of the Workforce1 Career Centers include, but are not limited to, helping companies grow through access to skilled NYC jobseekers, recruiting, screening, and connecting qualified New Yorkers to employment and training that leads to employment, and providing jobseekers with high quality career development services that are informed by a deep understanding of employer needs and labor market trends in particular sectors.

B. Program Goals and Objectives

In this Request for Proposal, Small Business Services “the Agency” seeks up to five (5) appropriately qualified service providers (“Service Providers”) to execute the proven successful demand-driven workforce development model. Service Providers must successfully engage businesses within in-demand sectors to obtain quality job commitments. Moreover, as demonstrated in the most recent center openings, the centers must build upon the demand-driven model to incorporate an integrated approach to: (1) connection to employment; (2) recruitment, assessment and connection to pre-training and training programs within Career Pathways for general and targeted populations with barriers to employment including but not limited to OSOW youth, New Yorkers formerly involved with the criminal justice system, New Yorkers with disabilities, and foreign born New Yorkers; (3) an expanded and effectively leveraged community partnership network that includes inbound and outbound referrals to recruit and prepare jobseekers for connection to employment; (4) priority and customized services for Priority individuals; (5) customized candidate preparation services for individuals with barriers to employment including but not limited to individuals formerly involved with the criminal justice system, OSOW Youth, foreign born New Yorkers, and New Yorkers with disabilities; and (6) post-training connection to employment for targeted populations with barriers to employment within the designated in-demand sectors.

Service Providers are expected to:

1. Execute a demand driven workforce development model to engage diverse businesses to secure employer commitments;
2. Develop a job portfolio of quality employment opportunities;
3. Maintain and expand employer and sector-based business expertise to support employer needs through candidate sourcing, preparation and training;
4. Manage recruitment efforts for businesses to connect interview and skills ready New Yorkers to job opportunities;
5. Connect employers to employee advancement training opportunities including on-the-job (OJT) training opportunities and Customized training opportunities to support business and employee growth and advancement;

6. Recruit and provide preparation and job connection services for New Yorkers, with an understanding and enforcement of priority individuals including but not limited to veterans, dislocated workers and low-income individuals;

7. Recruit and provide customized candidate preparation services for targeted populations with barriers to employment including but not limited to (1) New Yorkers formerly acquainted with the criminal justice system; (2) OSOW youth; (3) foreign born New Yorkers, and (4) New Yorkers with disabilities;

8. Recruit, assess and connect New Yorkers, including targeted populations with barriers to employment to training opportunities with approved providers within the respective Career Pathways sectors including: (1) accommodations and food, (2) construction, (3) industrial, (4) healthcare, (5) technology, and (6) retail;

9. Connect successfully trained individual from approved providers to employment opportunities within the corresponding career pathway; and

10. Effectively build and leverage community partnership networks with a range of organizations to deliver an integrated service delivery model with an aligned goal of connection to employment for New Yorkers. The community partnership network should leverage the respective strengths of each of the partners (e.g. centers provide recruitment and employment connection services; partners provide training, public benefits, social services, etc.).

C. Program Background

The Workforce1 Career Center System uses a proven successful demand driven model to help new and expanding businesses meet hiring and training needs. The Centers leverage a deep understanding of employer needs and sector experience to recruit qualified New York City jobseekers to employment opportunities. To promote job quality, in 2014 the Agency enacted a wage floor policy for all Centers, with the exception of Sector Centers. The wage floor requires employers that receive the System’s recruitment service to offer at least a minimum part-time wage to job candidates. The wage floor has advanced from $10.00 per hour or full-time employment (30 hours per week) in 2014 to $13.40 per hour or full-time employment. In fiscal year 2016 New Yorkers were successfully connected to 26,000 jobs. 79% were full time positions and the average wage was $12.41. That compares to 65% full time and $12.20 average wage in FY15.

In July 2015, the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) amended and superseded the Workforce Innovation Act (WIA). The new WIOA regulations provided key updates to the Workforce System including, but not limited to: (1) focus upon career pathways; (2) updated priorities for services; (3) expanded scope of career services; (4) an emphasis upon training; and (5) focused attention to addressing barriers to employment. In alignment with those updates, in November 2015 New York City Mayor Bill DeBlasio announced recommendations of the Jobs for New Yorkers Task Force in Career Pathways: One City Working Together. The Task Force was a group of inter-disciplinary stakeholders with a vision and goals for a revised public workforce system.

The Task Force’s recommendations were intended to build upon Workforce System to achieve the following:

- Support career advancement and income mobility by helping jobseekers and incumbent workers address educational needs and develop high-demand skills;
- Ensure that businesses in New York City can find the talent they need within the five boroughs;
- Improve the quality of low-wage jobs to benefit both workers and their employers;
- Leverage New York City’s economic development investments and purchasing power to place more New Yorkers in jobs; and Function as a coherent system that rewards job quality instead of the quantity of job placements by using system-wide job outcome data.

Building upon the System’s demand driven model, the recommendations outlined three key pillars including: (1) building skills employers seek; (2) improving job quality; and (3) increasing system and policy coordination, which had a direct impact on the programmatic direction for the Workforce1 Career Centers. Specifically, the City made at least three major investments to create mechanisms for career pathways for New Yorkers that leverage the Workforce1 Career Center System. First, Industry Partnerships were created in alignment with six economic sectors: (i) accommodations and food, (ii) construction, (iii) industrial, (iv) healthcare, (v) technology, and (vi) retail, to create a feedback loop with employers in the development and execution of market-relevant skills training programs. Second, the City made an unprecedented investment in advanced skills training. Third, there was an investment in bridge programs to prepare low-skill jobseekers for trainings. Each of these investments and priorities is represented in the current and planned approaches to service delivery within the Workforce1 Career Centers.

As part of the growing service delivery approach, the Workforce1 Career Center System expanded in 2016 to include centers with services tailored to specific populations with barriers to employment, new training investments, integration of training and employment services, and coordination and partnership among multiple agencies. The three centers opened in 2016 include:

West Farms Workforce1 Career Center – SBS collaborated with the New York City Department of Education and New York City Human Resources Administration (“HRA”) to launch the West Farms Workforce 1 Career Center in the Bronx. The West Farms Center focuses upon an integrated model of services customized to connect out-of-school, out-of-work youth (“OSOW Youth”) to careers with family sustaining wages. This integrated service delivery model features connection to: (i) customized candidate preparation workshops, including skills to strengthen job candidacy, (ii) immediate employment opportunities, (iii) HRA benefits, (iv) High School Equivalency Diploma preparation, and (v) tailored training opportunities and post training employment in the industrial, healthcare and technology industries. Historically, over 25% of the jobseekers served throughout the Workforce 1 Career Centers were OSOW Youth. In FY16, the Workforce 1 Career Center system connected 3,600 OSOW Youth to employment with an average wage of $10.97/hour.

Washington Heights Workforce1 Career Center – SBS collaborated with HRA to launch the Washington Heights Workforce1 Career Center, which features a set of services tailored to foreign-born New Yorkers. The Washington Heights Center focuses upon an integrated model of services customized to connect foreign-born New Yorkers with tailored trainings and jobs in growing industries including healthcare, tech, industrial and food service. The following services are available at the Washington Heights Center:

- Customized workshops to help foreign-born job seekers develop a better understanding of the American workplace and conduct a successful job search;
- Pre-training programs featuring English as a Second Language (ESL) support;
- Advanced occupational training programs in key industry sectors outlined including healthcare, technology, transportation, food service and construction;
- Connection to living-wage jobs;
- Guidance and direct access to HRA benefits, such as cash and food assistance – including the ability to apply for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP); and
- Connection to social services provided by community-based organizations that serve foreign-born New Yorkers.

East New York Workforce1 Career Center – SBS collaborated with its community partner network to design the East New York Workforce1 Career Center. The East New York Center is targeted to serving the East New York and surrounding communities. The service delivery model leveraged the vibrant East New York community partner network to identify community needs and to provide a continuum of services for jobseekers with an aligned goal of connection to employment.

The comprehensive set of services and integrated service delivery models that are featured in these three centers serves the Career Pathways framework set by the Taskforce while also carrying out the historical delivery of core employment services. These integrated models build upon the success of the Workforce System’s demand driven model. With a focused emphasis upon employer need and job quality, services at these centers were extended to include connection to training opportunities within Career Pathways, and to more effectively leverage partnerships to engage jobseekers.

Moreover, the Workforce1 Center System continued to provide priority services for Priority individuals, as well as tailored services for individuals with barriers to employment.

Priority1 – Priority services are provided to Veterans and eligible military spouses throughout the Workforce1 Career Center System. Through the Priority1 Initiative, SBS has a dedicated team of 12 Veteran specialists across nine (9) Workforce 1 Centers to coordinate and provide career development services to Veterans. The Veterans Specialists team leverages the demand driven model that governs the entire Workforce System to prioritize and recruit veterans, coordinate and deliver one-on-one career development support that includes military to civilian resume translation and interview assistance, connecting veterans to employment opportunities and sustaining relationships to support retention and advancement. 190,000 veterans currently live in New York City. Priority1 served 9,582 veterans and military spouses between 2015 and 2016. They were connected to 2,256 employment opportunities.

Employment Works – In August 2008, SBS in partnership with the New York City Department of Probation (DOP) began administering the “Employment Works” program of services exclusively to New Yorker’s under the supervision of the Department of Probation. Created and funded with support from the Mayor’s Center for Economic Opportunity (CEO), the program was one of several innovative approaches aimed at decreasing poverty for New Yorkers. The program included job readiness training, resume preparation, interviewing skills, addressing the conviction question asked by employers, job placement and retention services.

Numerous studies have shown that in contrast to the general job seeking population, individuals with criminal justice system-involvement history are in many cases the least likely to be hired by an employer. In an effort to reverse this trend, the program focused on two customers: businesses and jobseekers. Leveraging the successful demand driven model, the program engages employers across various sectors with the goal of securing employment opportunities. Jobseekers formerly involved with the criminal justice system are screened, receive customized candidate preparation services, and are connected to job opportunities.

In the program’s initial term, DOP and SBS tailored services for New Yorkers under DOP supervision to concentrate resources on a specific and underserved segment of all New Yorkers who have been involved in the criminal justice system. Between 2011 and 2015, the program averaged over 840 full-time hires per year. Sectors with the highest number of placements have been: accommodations/food services, waste management, other services (security, janitorial, etc.) and retail.

Tailored services for individuals formerly involved with the criminal justice system include:

- Customized candidate services to support and prepare job seekers for interviews and connection to employment;
- Expanded employer access to talent by integrating business development efforts with those of the entire Workforce1 Career Center System;
• Connect New Yorkers formerly involved with the criminal justice system to jobs with wage levels ranging from entry to advanced level with the overall goal of promoting job stability, career advancement, and economic sustainability; and
• Increase marketable skills of individuals formerly involved in the criminal justice system and invest in longer-term career advancement through connection to education and skills-based training.

The program currently operates at the following Workforce1 Center locations:

• Bronx Employment Works Program: 369 East 148th Street, 1st Floor, Bronx, NY 10455
• Brooklyn Employment Works Program: 9 Bond Street, 5th Floor, Brooklyn, NY 11201

In the proposed operation of the Workforce System, services provided to individuals formerly involved with the criminal justice system are expected to be provided in each of the five boroughs. Further, in the current and planned operation of the Workforce System, primary responsibilities of all Center providers are expected to include:

• Execute a demand driven model to engage New York City Businesses to secure employment commitments;
• Manage recruitment efforts for businesses to connect interview and skills ready New York City job seekers to job opportunities;
• Maintain and expand employer and sector based business expertise to support employer needs through candidate sourcing, preparation and training;
• Recruit and connect New York City job seekers, including targeted populations with barriers to employment, to services, training and direct employment opportunities;
• Conduct and/or coordinate customized candidate preparation services for individuals with barriers to employment; and
• Manage a community partner network to recruit job seekers, facilitate access to services and training, and to connect successfully trained jobseekers to commensurate employment opportunities.

A. Proposal Evaluation

All proposals received on or before the submission deadline will be reviewed to determine whether they are responsive or non-responsive to the requisites of this RFP. Proposals that are determined by SBS to be non-responsive will be rejected. SBS’s Evaluation Committee will evaluate and rate all remaining proposals. SBS reserves the right to conduct site visits and/or interviews and/or to request that proposers make presentations or demonstrations, as SBS deems applicable and appropriate. Although discussions may be conducted with proposers submitting acceptable proposals, the Agency reserves the right to award contracts on the basis of initial proposals received, without discussions; therefore, the proposer’s initial proposal should contain its best programmatic terms.

B. Contract Award

A contract award will be made to the highest technically rated, responsible proposer whose proposal is determined to be the most advantageous to the City and whose price complies with the conditions set forth in Section 2.G. of the RFP, taking into consideration the price and such factors and criteria which are set forth in the RFP. Proposals will be ranked in descending order of their overall average technical scores and, if applicable, SBS will establish a shortlist through a natural break in scores for technically viable proposals. SBS may request best and final offers (BAFOs) and will then consider price by negotiating a fair and reasonable price with the highest technically ranked proposer. In the event that such a price is not successfully negotiated, the Agency may conclude such negotiations, and enter into negotiations with the next highest technically ranked proposer, as necessary.

SBS reserves the right to:
- Award less than the full amount of funding requested in the best interests of the City.
- prior to contract award, to determine the length of the initial contract term and each option to renew, if any.
- prior to contract registration and during the term of the contract, to change the Program service size, Program type and model of its population depending on the needs of the Program.
- change the location and number of centers associated with this contract at any time during the life of the contract. Although the contracts will be awarded for Workforce1 Career Centers and their affiliate centers by borough, each center works in concert with the other Workforce1 Career Centers and NYC Business Solutions to serve jobseekers, low-income workers, and businesses to support Career Seekers and businesses citywide. Proposers are permitted to propose a site different from the current location(s).

The contract award shall be subject to the timely completion of contract negotiations between the Agency and the selected proposer and a determination of contractor responsibility.
